About Gloria

I've been fortunate to work at what I love to do to help people have their best life possible. I'm presently in my third career as a professional speaker and workshop leader, focused on helping pre- and post-retirees plan a meaningful and fulfilling second half of life. I also advise corporations and business services on how to prepare their employees and clients with meaningful advice about retirement and aging. Additionally, I consult with organizations on how best to keep their company operational as Baby Boomers retire.

For 25 years I was a trainer, coach, consultant, and professional speaker in the field of Organizational Development and Behavior. I also hosted a Cable TV talk show interviewing business leaders. During the preceding 10 years, I enjoyed my work as an award-winning public relations professional. My new book in 2017 is Revivment: Having a Life After Making a Living. My earlier book, Wiser Ways to Work: From Making a Living to Having a Life is updated. Together they represent the work life and post work life journey. I'm an active member of my community and Rotary Club.
